

McWeadon
Enabling Learning Without Boundaries

ET509: Supporting Online Students

Do you have high rates of online students who withdraw or are simply missing in action? Perhaps you are looking for ways to reverse this trend. Developing effective, remotely delivered services for online students is one response to this concern.

McWeadon is currently offering ET509: Supporting Online Students, a 4-week online course with special discounted rate of $99. McWeadon instructor, Anita Crawley will be your personal coach and guide as you develop your skills in the course.

Learn in a highly facilitated environment at your convenience. Our instructors are personally accountable to ensure the utmost quality and interaction and the effectiveness of this valuable learning environment.

WHAT YOU'LL LEARN

Participants will learn the scope of online student services and the importance of developing effective, remotely delivered services to improve student success and retention. Participants will understand which services are best delivered at three periods of enrollment. By completing the course project, participants will devise an implementation plan to improve one online student service at their college.

Course participants will be able to:

- Identify which online services are best delivered: as students consider their first online enrollment, during the semester, and as they prepare to leave the college.
- Recognize gaps in their college's current online student services.
- Identify best practice online student services.
- Devise an implementation plan for improving services to online students.

Enroll Today

For more information: contact@mcweadon.com

Tweet us: <http://twitter.com/mcweadon>

MEET THE INSTRUCTOR

Anita Crawley

Anita Crawley has earned two Masters Degrees, one in Counseling and Human Development and the other in Education Technology Leadership. She has more than twenty years of experience working at two community colleges, first as a Student Development Counselor/Faculty and most recently as an Interim Director of Distance Learning. She is working on her Instructional Design for Online Learners PhD and teaching online. Anita is a recognized expert in developing and delivering web-based services to online students. She conveys her enthusiasm and passion for her work even in the online classroom.

<http://mcweadon.com/courses>